Ready next fall:

Work On New Infirmary To Begin Soon

Construction on PC's proposed new infirmary is expected to begin by December 1, in hopes of having the facility ready for use by the start of the 1971-72 session next fall.

A bid of $207,612 gained the contract for Harper Builders of Williamston, S. C. Eight other companies also entered the October bidding, with price tags ranging up to $238,758.

Business Manager G. Edward Campbell said the total cost of the new infirmary, counting equipment and furnishings and the architect's fee, probably would come to $225,000. Of this amount, $205,000 will be financed through an already approved Federal loan payable over 40 years at only 3 percent interest rates.

The infirmary is the first of three new buildings scheduled for construction on the PC campus in the years immediately ahead. The other two plant objectives of the recent EXCEL campaign, a new library and a physical education center, have plans ready to go as soon as additional funds are available.

The new 18-bed infirmary will be situated to the east of Greenville Dining Hall and facing on the East Plaza. Plans call for 6,400 square feet to include patient quarters for nine men and nine women, treatment rooms, diet kitchen and doctor's office on the first floor, and the infirmary matron's two - bedroom apartment on the second floor. A sun-deck will be placed atop the single-story rear wing.

As indicated by the picture shown here, the facade of the building maintains in a simple way the colonial Georgian style of other campus facilities.

The basic construction bid of $207,612 includes a $23,513 alternate for work around the adjacent dining hall in the form of a service driveway, parking space and a decorative wall. This work will be done as part of the total package.

$100,000 Deferred Gift To PC

A $100,000 deferred gift from an individual and the $50,000 payment of a foundation challenge grant have been received by Presbyterian during the past month. Both donors requested to remain anonymous.

The $100,000 has been placed in the PC development fund with provisions for the donor to retain the income for life and the College to be the sole beneficiary thereafter. The $50,000 check came as the final payment of a $150,000 challenge grant offered several years ago with special stipulations which PC has just met.

Almost within reach of claiming by PC is a second challenge grant for $200,000 by the same anonymous foundation. College officials expect to qualify during the coming year.

New Officers Named To Lead Association

Alumni mail ballots have named Tom E. Addison '38 of Clinton as PC's new alumni trustee representative and Harry E. Hicklin '48 of Rock Hill as president-elect of the Presbyterian College Alumni Association.

Eleven other former students were chosen alumni directors as almost 20 percent of the Association members voted by mail for the 1971 officers and directors. The new leaders were installed during the November 7 Homecoming program and will assume office next January.

Addison, division manager with Waddell and Reed, succeeds Dr. J. Newton Gaston '29 of Chester as one of three alumni-elected representatives to the board of trustees. Hicklin, vice-president of the Standard Life & Casualty Insurance Co., takes office when the current president-elect—William B. Hart '57, vice-president of the First National Bank of Atlanta — automatically moves up to Alumni Association president. Hart succeeds Greenville attorney William M. Hagood, III '60, who remains on the alumni board as past-president.

Dr. Thomas N. Massey, Jr. '51 of Charlotte is the new first vice-president of the Alumni Association, and the following persons have been elected to two-year terms on the alumni board:

Georgia District 1 vice-president—Paul O. Ard, Jr. '61, officer with the Citizens & Southern National Bank of Atlanta; director—Eugene R. Goodwyn III '63, mathematics teacher at the Walter George High School of Atlanta.

North Carolina District 2 vice-president—David I. Trice '43 of Fayetteville, millwork manager of Highland Lumber Co.; director—A. B.

Creed '46 of Greensboro, president of L. W. Routh Construction Co.

South Carolina District 2 vice-president—H. Baxter Carpenter '38 of Greenville, underwriter with Prudential Insurance Co.; director—Harvey R. Dickson '27 of Anderson, partner with Dickson & Co.; District 3 vice-president—Richard W. Carr, Jr. '62 of Spartanburg, executive with Spartan Mills; director—Danny L. Charles '65, executive with Springs Mills; District 5 vice-president—Warren M. Wardlaw, pastor of the Darlington Presbyterian Church; director—Douglas E. Allen '66, teacher at Georgetown's Winyah High School.

Besides current officers Hart and Hagood, 12 other persons remain on the board for the second year of their two-year terms. These include Mrs. Georgia B. Thomason '34 of Clinton as second vice-president, Mrs. Betty Hunter Brice '44 of Chester as recording secretary, two directors each from Georgia and North Carolina, and six South Carolina directors.

Annual Giving Hits $88,000

The Annual Giving program stands at $88,000 in early November—and already starting the final two-month spurt toward the $160,000 goal for 1970.

Latest figures show $46,100 of this total contributed by 770 alumni, and $41,900 by 375 parents and friends. Both of these amounts are ahead of the pace at the same date last year. The 1969 program ultimately produced $151,800.

The number of alumni donors also runs ahead of last year as efforts are made to claim the $10,000 challenge based on alumni participation.

Board of Visitors

Officers for the Coming Year

New officers, headed by John N. McLaurin, Jr. (center) of North Augusta as chairman, now direct the affairs of PC's advisory board of visitors. He is chief engineer with the Georgia Railroad and Banking Co. of Augusta. Other 1970-71 officers, talking over plans here with McLaurin, are: Philip H. Dohn, Jr. of Atlanta, partner in Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., Georgia vice-chairman; and Mrs. George H. Cornelson of Clinton, secretary. Not in the picture is John A. Montgomery, editor of the COLUMBIA RECORD, South Carolina vice-chairman.

Awards for Distinguished Service

John I. Smith of Greenville, retired vice-president of Abney Mills and a member of the board of visitors, displays the 1970 Chairman's Cup Award presented to him as a board member who has rendered outstanding service to PC through his business acumen and civic and church devotion.

A professor and a staff member are the 1970 recipients of the board's Distinguished Service Award. As shown here with President Weersing, they are: John S. Glover, associate professor and acting chairman of the modern foreign languages department, who was cited for 23 years at PC as an effective teacher and counselor and associate to the academic dean in schedule and calendar development; and Mrs. Mildred B. Bowers, efficient manager of the dining hall for the past 15 years.

Alumnus Templeton, Vice-Chairman

Chapman Becomes New Chairman of Trustees

James A. Chapman, Jr., of Spartanburg, president and treasurer of Inman Mills, is the new chairman of the Presbyterian College board of trustees.

He has just been named unanimously by the board to succeed Atlanta minister Dr. Eugene T. Wilson as head of the governing body which includes 13 members each from the Synods of South Carolina and Georgia, three alumni representatives and three at-large members.

At the same time, the board also chose Ross E. Templeton of Charlotte as vice-chairman and re-elected William L. Watkins of Anderson as secretary.

Alumni representative Templeton is a retired senior assistant vice-president of Field Enterprises Educational Corp. A member of PC's class of 1924, he has been active in alumni affairs and holds the honorary doctor of humanities degree from PC.

Watkins is an attorney whose father, T. Frank Watkins, served actively as a trustee (1951-66) and continues as an honorary life member. His law degree is from the University of Virginia.

James Chapman, moving up from vice-chairman, has been a PC trustee since 1964 and prior to that served as chairman of the college's board of visitors.

Recognized as a leader in the textile industry, he has been president and treasurer of Inman Mills in Inman, S. C., for the past six years after holding the position of vice-president from 1954 to 1964. Chapman is a member of the board of directors of the National Association of Manufacturers and a former president of the Southern Textile Association (1955-56).

He also has been active in other civic and religious affairs—serving as president of the South Carolina State Chamber of Commerce in 1964, as an elder of the Spartanburg First Presbyterian Church and a former moderator of Enoree Presbytery. A Davidson College graduate, with BS degree in 1943, Chapman now serves on that school's board of visitors.

Retiring Chairman Wilson, a 1925 PC graduate and minister-emeritus of the Peachtree Presbyterian Church, completes the full nine-year tenure as trustee.
